Dear Mother,

It's almost too bitter, crying, hug, and not to write. As I think about my unfinished quilts, I wonder how the pioneer women did it......did they pack it all away in this kind of weather and wait for a cooler day. How fortunate we are with air conditioning. After fruits, vegetables and flowers have been plucked from the garden, we can sit in some comfort to piece and applique. And, to think about The Four Winds Block, Forest Path, Evergreen Tree, Autumn Leaves, Goose in the Pond, Mariner's Compass, Ocean Waves, Old Tippocane, Shaded Trail, The Tall Pine Tree, Water Wheel, Wild Goose Chase, and Delectable Mountains.

Cooler thoughts and plans for fall activities really help. Mn. Quilters will be at the State Fair for 3 days demonstrating and conversing with the public. Our fun and instructive Fall Get-A-Way is planned for October......a great weather time of year to learn something new. I might even begin planning my Christmas block for the exchange in December. Remembering last winter's storms should help me cool off. What a time it would be to be on the north shore of Ten Mile Lake. You should hear Caroline Sidebottom's recitation on "the lake". Coming from Kansas, Caroline says everyone in Minnesota is 'going to the lake'. She envisions one huge lake somewhere north of Plymouth (where she lives)...... and that's where everyone goes when they mention 'the lake'.

Do you know anyone who ever designed a quilt and called it Cool and Refreshing - or Icy Tones - or Frigid - air? See you when it's cooler.

Blessings,

Mary

R FOR QUILTERS

By Helen Kelley

I didn't feel much like getting up this morning at 6:30 when the alarm rang. I lay in bed and took stock of the situation. The weather was still hot. It seemed like it had been hot for an eternity. Through all of this heat, I have been cooking garden vegetables. I have been sewing sticky pieces of fabric into a new quilt top. I've been doing all of the day-by-day things that keep a household functioning.

I shuffled down the stairs. The shades were already pulled on the sunny side of the house. The microwave beeped. My first cup of coffee was ready. I sipped it as I stood in front of the open back windows catching any stir of the early morning air. My whole body felt wilted.

"If you already eat well and get plenty of sleep," said my daughter, "maybe you should take Geritol!"

I have noticed over the years that the Geritol-seen in the TV commercials seems to be getting younger and younger. Whether I am rapidly catching up with people of advanced age, or whether the ads are being aimed at a more youthful market, I still feel that I am not ready yet to begin each day with a spoonful of a geriatric pick-me up.

Or am I?

Let's examine my daily routine. I do eat well. I do get plenty of rest....well, enough rest, anyway. I really think my droopiness is due to this interminable heat. Mostly I feel great. On a cool morning I wake before the alarm sounds, slosh down my cup of coffee and I'm ready to take on the world. Come to think of it, maybe I do take Geritol and in giant doses. I think, though, that my Geritol doesn't come in a bottle. My Geritol is not purchased from the corner druggist, and it is closer than my medicine cabinet.

This is my Geritol; try it, you'll like it:

Get a new idea every day. Try it out. Grow.

Enthusiasm - the magic ingredient that spices any mediocre moment.

Rise up each day and quilt a little.

Insist on a little loving - give a bit and get it back.

Take time to deep-breath. It clears the head and the heart.

Open your eyes and look around you.

Laugh a lot.

There you have it, Geritol! Even in the heat it adds zip to life. It's good for any age and available in every home.

COMO PARK PICNIC

Friday, August 12th was a lovely, sunny day for the M.O. Daytime picnic which was held at Como Park. The Show and Tell was held in the pavilion with the meeting next.

Three quilting frames were set up on the lawn where many sat around quilting with their lovely bonnets and hats. At noon everyone had the "goodies" each brought to share. After eating many returned to the quilts.

A BRUSH WITH EXCITEMENT ....or use a feather for a (high) light touch!

The versatility of textile pigments was the reason for so much enthusiasm at the workshop on August 6, co-sponsored by Kaleidoscope Quilts and Fabric Arts, Inc., St. Paul, and Creative Fibers, Minneapolis, at the Weaver's Guild of Minn., St. Paul, MN. Not only can textile pigments be applied with stencil and paint brushes, but also sponges, feathers, and squeeze and spray bottles. They work for such divergent applications as stencilling, screen printing, block printing, air brushing, and impression painting (lightly paint a feather; flop it down on fabric, painted side down; put a piece of paper on top; gently press down; remove paper; pick up feather. Voila! a beautiful feather impression! Repaint feather; repeat.)

These are but a few of the "secrets" of the versatility of textile pigments, as explained by Vince Kennedy, from Color Craft, Avon, CT. The 4 1/2 - hour, hand-on workshop allowed the participants ample time to experiment with the transparent and opaque pigments, including metallics. The transparent and opaque colors can be mixed together, thinned, thickened, or extended to obtain varying degrees of opacity, transparency, intensity, color shades, etc., depending upon the effect desired.

All these possibilities add to the excitement, yet pigments are easy to use, especially the water-based ones, like those from Color Craft. They can be applied to natural or synthetic fibers and they are permanent, color fast, washable, and drycleanable.

Delicate wash effects can be achieved using thinned pigments, applied with a 1" wide sponge brush. Pigments are thinned for a water color effect with a special thinner to retain the original color intensity or with water to dilute the hue.

The use of textile pigments opens up an exciting new world for quilters and other surface designers. Yvonne Porcella has been in the forefront of national quilters to popularize the use of textile pigments with her painting on silk classes. Many Minnesota Quilters had the privilege to take such a class from Yvonne in June at the Stitchery Celebration '83, put on by Sally Hart Borgen.

"The added bonus to the workshop was the sharing of ideas and techniques that each participant tried. Each person went away with a wealth of information about the potential uses and applications for the pigments", according to Marit Kucera, who coordinated the workshop for Kaleidoscope.

Dear Nancy,

Recently I have been corresponding with Gail Cottrell Dunham who has had several quilt poems published. In one of her letters Gail told me a true story about Jessie, a quilting friend of hers. Jessie is no longer living and Gail feels "the statute of limitations" has probably run out on Jessie's crime. Here's the story which she agreed you could share with MQ readers if you'd like. (Gail adited the Citrus Belt Quilters' NEWSPATCHER last year—says you may have a copy or two.)

JESSIE'S TALE

We were to give a talk at the local library on quilting—sort of a mini quilt show and demonstration to stimulate interest in our volunteer group of community service quilters. Jessie had one of her original quilts in the frame at her mobile home and I said I'd come pick it up in my truck, but she declined, saying she could handle it. We'd all learned not to crowd Jessie once she'd made up her mind, so I didn't press the issue. (If she needed help she'd call me.)

On the afternoon of "The Quilting Affair" at the library, each member of our little group came bearing quilts, wall-hangings, tote bags, and all things related to quilting. Jessie arrived with enormous fabric-wrapped sticks protruding from the windows of her little car and a Cheshire Cat grin on her face! Seems she was running late and decided to take a short cut through a residential area known for its narrow winding streets and unexpected cul-de-sacs. As luck would have it, she became lost. Pressed for time and growing anxious, she cut a corner too sharply and ran SMACK! into a parked camper truck with the protruding end of her quilt-frame sticks. Knowing the law, she realized she'd be guilty of hit-and-run if she left the scene without reporting the accident. However, she was also painfully aware of the eager quilters-to-be that were crowding into the library on this hot summer's day, and she made a snap decision. Throwing her little Nash into reverse, she backed away from the impaled camper and fled the scene!

Well, even though the quilt was sagging, we managed (with suppressed laughter) to present the program and demonstration, not daring to reveal to our audience the source of mutual mirth (quilters are naturally happy!), but none of us will ever forget that day. Later, three of us followed Jessie back to the scene of the unfortunate incident, intending to give her moral support as she confessed to the owner why his camper had a hole in the rear end that looked like the perfect nesting place for a family of woodpeckers! But we couldn't find it! We wandered up and down streets, peering into backyards and asking questions, all to no avail. It was reported to the local sheriff but to this day we've never known whose camper was attacked by an 86 year old lady and her quilting frames!

Gail Cottrell Dunham

Sincerely,

Sharon Bobgan

THE YWCA at LYMAN LODGE

Our organization has been distributing Celebrate Yourself brochures; this year our weekend at Lyman comes after the benefit.

As with all scholarship-raising efforts, our objective is to allow more people on restricted incomes to come to our programs. Both preschool and the retreat called Celebrate Yourself are well attended, but in each case we know our reasonable fees can shut out those who might benefit the most from the program. For preschool, financial assistance has not been offered. Celebrate Yourself has been sensitive to women's needs by its very nature—last year, of 60 in attendance, 15 had financial aid of some kind.

QUILTER'S PATCHWORK BENEFIT for Lyman Scholarships

Add this up! An October Saturday afternoon at the Lodge at Lyman, a two-woman performance of readings from prose and poetry dating from 1850 to the present, a display of antique and contemporary quilts, a silent auction and activities for children. It's a party—a party which will provide scholarships for two Lyman programs; Preschool and a 1984 women's retreat called Celebrate Yourself.

Sharon Bobgan and Abby Walden, both from New Hope, have appeared frequently in the Twin Cities and elsewhere in their historic program "Quilter's Patchwork", subtitled "A Look into the Heart and Soul of Quilting". They met as YWCA volunteers 10 years ago and continue today to be active in the YWCA, often on the management level. Their interests led them to take a quilting class at the YWCA which in turn developed into the Hand of Friendship Quilters, an Osseo group which meets regularly. They are members of the Minnesota Quilters.

The "Quilter's Patchwork" program will be at 2:00 p.m. followed by shopping at the silent auction and viewing the quilt display. Auction winners will be announced at 4:30 p.m. No reservations are needed.

Date and Time: October 8, 1:30-5:00 p.m. Admission is $3.00 for adults, $1.00 for children and $5.00 for families. Phone Lyman, 474-2503, for further details.
