From the President

Hooray! We now have a complete board of directors again. The long-vacant editorial position has been filled by Arlene Walsh of Bloomington. She has experience in volunteer work for the NWCA and has been a member of M.Q. for about a year. I welcome her to the board and I hope support and encouragement as well as articles and ads will be directed her way. Thanks, also, to the other members who came forward to inquire about the editorial position.

I was unable to attend the January meetings but they must have been like a "fun and funny" mini-show preview. The show committee has tried to fill you in on details and descriptions of all the events but don’t hesitate to ask questions. They wouldn’t want you to miss out on any of the fun.

Thank you for the many cards I received after a short stay in the hospital last month. I also appreciate the extra help given by my friends in carrying out newsletter and presidential duties in January. Quilters are neat people!

RELAX & LEARN AT QUILTER'S RETREAT

Let someone else cook the meals and wash the dishes while you take workshops from Helen Kelley, Jeannie Spears, and Pat Cox on the shores of Silver Lake near Minneapolis, Minnesota. One low registration fee covers classes, housing, and meals.

Three sessions to choose from in 1986: May 5, 6, 7 or September 14, 15, 16, or September 17, 18, and 19.

Patchwork Partytime

HELP! HELP! To make our party during the show, fun for all, the committee needs some help, i.e. donations.

1. The worst, the very worst quilt in the world will go home with some lucky party-goer. To make this quilt we need some very bad, terrible blocks—or parts thereof. Surely a few of you must have something where the colors are just not right, points don't meet or are generally dreadful. Partial blocks, even scraps, would be super. You may remain anonymous!

2. There will be some games involving fabric—ANY fabric, any size, any color. That's right, we'll take ANYTHING. Now you have no excuse not to clean out your fabric storehouse! We guarantee we'll put your donation to bad use!

3. With over 700 of us, some of you must surely decorate cakes. A couple people could have a hilarious afternoon doing a patchwork cake like a quilt? Crazy quilt? Using the "Quilting by the River" theme? This would be just fun and could be as simple or as involved as you wish—sheet cake style.

4. Ideas! If you have a game or an idea that can be adapted to a quilt theme, let us know!

Some of you who live far off and who can't help cut too much, here is your chance! Contact any member of the show committee or board and they will relay things to the party committee. Better yet, phone me (612) 963-6530 or send your blocks and fabric to me. We really need you! THANKS! Barbara Hjort, 335 NW 8th Street, Milaca 56353.

PS: Costumes—Well, that only means to wear some clothes, any clothes! If you have patchwork garments you have made, wear them. If you like to retire early, wear your nighty and robe (the party pooper costume?). And if you have admired your daughter's day-glo socks, now is your chance to wear them! Some of you may wish to come as "blocks." (i.e. nine squares randomly pinned on your bod would qualify you for a genuine nine patch.) We'll guess what block you are. In short, anything goes—even regular street clothes!

We are requesting member’s assistance in providing door prizes for our Quilting by the River show in 1986. If you would like to participate, please contact Connie Fluhar at 869-6582 or Wendy Richardson at 566-3339. We will collect donations at the February and March meetings.

"...Wow! All fabrics one-half off!"
Northern Lights Quilters
by Mary Graves

International Falls may be known as the coldest spot in the nation, but for a small group of women quilts warm the heart, soul and body all year round.

The Northern Lights Quilters Guild (18 members), organized in June of 1982 with the purpose of meeting monthly in member's homes to learn new quilting techniques, to plan activities to educate the community about quilts, and to show each other quilts we'd made. Each meeting consists of a short business meeting, show and tell and a mini-workshop organized by the hostess. Mini-workshops have covered a variety of topics including: bias binding, shadow applique, folded star, prairie points, celtic interlace, pattern drafting and battings. Sometimes films or slides are shown or a speaker is invited. In addition, each year handmade ornaments are exchanged at the Christmas potluck and each August we meet with other local guilds for a picnic.

In 1982 the guild sponsored their first quilt activity for the public. "Beginning Quilting" was presented by Leona Wilkins and the response to the workshop was very good. Other activities followed: Style Show and Tea, Christmas exhibit at the public library, window warmer workshop, string-quilted vest workshop and an island retreat on Rainy Lake with a program on the quilts of the Minnesota Historical Society presented by Museum Curator Marcia Anderson.

Several other community projects evolved including a research project to document quilts in Koochiching County and stitching colorful lap quilts for the nursing home.

The desire to attend the Minnesota Quilters Show spurred the guild's first raffle project. An ambitious first group project was successful both creatively and financially. Part of the funds raised from the raffle supported the rental of a bus to attend Scrap Quilt Magic. Plans are currently being made to raffle a second quilt to raise money to attend this year's Minnesota Quilters Show.

Our "Block-A-Month" class will attend their last session in February. Each month a different block was taught by a member, each block featuring a different technique. Hopefully these sampler quilts will be quilted in time for the guild's first major show. Plans are in the works for an October 1986 show at the public library/community hall in International Falls. Committees have been formed and the logistics of a quilt show are being worked out.

We've recently purchased a quilt frame and are looking for a permanent spot to meet and quilt and hold our many activities. Feel free to join us if you're in the area. We meet the second Monday of each month.

Evening Meeting Report
January 9

The January meeting was attended by 39 members plus 10 guests, and 19 people participated in a very interesting Show and Tell. I wish I could describe each item in full detail! But to mention a few, Linda Ikola showed a beautiful queen size scrap quilt she made in a pattern called Double Star. Linda said she came to think of it as her "double trouble" quilt by the time it was finished! Judy Monaghan modelled a wonderful coat she was still working on that she not only designed, but dyed the fabrics in it. And Irene Coleman let us see her finished Baltimore bride's applique quilt top, and we look forward to seeing the finished quilt when she has it quilted!

We enjoyed a very entertaining skit put on by our show committee to whet our appetites for the upcoming Spring Quilt Show.

Then our evening was completed by Lynn Freedsall's fascinating talk which outlined her own personal history as a quilt maker and designer, and was illustrated with many samples of her quilts.

Show Parking Information

You will receive a map of all downtown parking with your confirmation letter for classes. If you have not signed up for anything yet maps will be available at meetings. Freeway exits are shown and the heavy black lines show skyways so you never have to go outside after you park. Some hotel parking is available—if you hit the roof level keep going as there is more parking on the way down. Allow extra time for walking in case the hotel lot is full and if you park on Harriet Island you may have to wait for the shuttle.

Park and ride bus information will be available at the March meetings. If you are worried about carrying a sewing machine back and forth on the bus, you should be able to find someone staying at the hotel who could keep it overnight.

Quilt Show Members Boutique

If you have one or many items to sell you are welcome to bring them to the Minnesota Quilters Members Boutique.

4. Items should be picked up between 4 & 5:30 the final day of the show (Wednesday April 16).

What do I do now?
by Kay Bailey

It appears that some Minnesota Quilters do have questions, so we will answer as requested.

One of our members was given the task of repairing an old Grandmother's Flower Garde quilt made in the '20's by the owner's great grandmother. She had collected some old (but not used or worn) materials that were compatible. Most of the wear was in the white rows consisting of 12 hexagons which joined the print "flowers". If all, or a major portion of these were worn, it would be best to remove all of them and piece in new rows, or perhaps omit them altogether and join the remaining blocks into a smaller quilt top. In that case, the quilt would have to be taken apart. However, this was not necessary, and it was agreed it would be best to applique individual replacement hexagons over the worn pieces and then quilt each of those pieces. The original quilt was double quilted.

She also wondered what to do about the batting which had fallen out of some of these spaces. Being a cotton filled quilt, it undoubtedly had thin spaces where the fibers had shifted - unless it had been closely quilted. It would not be practical to restore the batt in those places, but I would not hesitate to use small pieces of batting, cut to fit and held in place by the new quilting in the replaced pieces. It would be preferable to use the same type batting, but I don't think using modern batting should be objectionable. I can hear a few screams of "It wouldn't be authentic!" but I think the consideration here is the preservation and the appearance of a beloved family possession and not a historical record. The quilter could attach the story of the quilt (typed on a piece of muslin and sewn to the back of the quilt) stating that it had been repaired with materials available. Dated, of course!

One quilter called with a problem relating to teaching which called for a personal opinion and I don't think it is suitable for this column. However, I am willing to answer any question you ask if I know the answer or can find someone who does.

A third member, living in an apartment, was having difficulty with a quilt she was making and quilting block by block. She was doing the quilting by holding the work in her hands as they did not fit in any of her hoops. The backs were not smooth, and they were smaller than the tops. The solution offered was to use one of the small, square, adjustable frames which were designed just for small projects and apartment dwellers (and house dwellers who could not spare the room for a full sized quilting frame.) She was pleased with the suggestion and determined to pick out the quilting stitches in the four blocks she had finished. If any of you have other solutions, your suggestions are welcome.
Asian Fine Arts

FINE ASIAN TEXTILES are the highlight of the upcoming exhibition at Asian Fine Arts gallery. Included in the show will be antique Chinese robes and embroidered hangings, Japanese brocades and kimonos, ikats from Indonesia and Thailand, quilted and tie-dyed pieces from India, plus Central Asian folk wares and garments. A wide variety of works for wearing and display will be available; many are new acquisitions.

The exhibit opens on February 18 and continues through April 19. Gallery hours are 9:30 - 5:30, Monday through Friday, and 11:00 to 4:00 on Saturdays. We invite you to visit the gallery at your convenience; your inquiries are also most welcome.
